Qualification

- Bachelor of Arts in Broadcast Journalism
- Qualification Code: BABJ1
- B.A. (Broadcast Journalism)
- SAQA ID 111434, NQF (HEQSF) Level 7, 395 Minimum Subject Credits
- This qualification is only offered at the Sandton (Jhb) campus

What is the Purpose of the Qualification?

The Bachelor of Arts in Broadcast Journalism provides a broad and well-rounded education that equips graduates with a knowledge base in the theory and methodology of journalism-specific disciplines and fields of study. The breadth and depth of learning achieved by the successful graduate reflects a depth and specialisation of knowledge, together with practical skills and experience in the workplace that enables successful learners to enter a number of journalism-related career paths and to apply their learning to particular employment contexts. It also enables them to articulate into further learning pathways within the NQF. Through this programme we aim to prepare journalists to be able to determine how and with what kind of, storytelling effectively communicates the issues and events facing society in the digitalised world of the 21st century.

What are the Programme Outcomes?

The programme is designed to induct students into the field of Broadcast Journalism. The media continues to play a vital role in the fabric of all societies particularly in an increasingly globalised and super-complex world. Broadcast Journalism plays a particular role in informing, educating and communicating up-to-date information about current events in the world at large to a disparate audience. Practices in the field need to keep pace with technological developments and practitioners need to understand the demands of market consumption in order to remain relevant. The fields of Journalism, Radio and Television include a broad range of theoretical and practical knowledge and skill sets. The programme provides for induction into, and specialisation in, the procedural knowledge and technical skills of these fields, as well as the knowledge and applicable skills required for digital broadcast production and management in journalism.

At the exit level learners are expected to achieve specific outcomes that demonstrate the ability to integrate the theoretical knowledge and practical skills acquired throughout the learning programme, and to apply them in a variety of familiar and unfamiliar contexts. Learners must have internalised the procedural knowledge and skill of the sub-fields of Broadcast Journalism, and display competent use of a range of tools and techniques in the performance of professional practice. The competent graduate will be able to think critically, analyse and evaluate complex problems, and manage processes creatively and strategically in addressing and resolving them. Through the programme, learners will have developed the ability to work in a self-directed manner and to reflect critically on their own practice and that of others, to make reasoned and ethical decisions for which they are fully accountable.

Minimum Entry Requirements

A minimum requirement for admission into the degree is a:

- National Senior Certificate (NSC), with English as one of the subjects passed and with endorsement for admission to Bachelor's degree study; or
- National Certificate (Vocational) (NC(V)), with English as one of the subjects passed and with endorsement for admission to Bachelor's degree study; or
- Prior to 2009, Senior Certificate* with English as one of the subjects passed.

How many subjects can I take each semester?

Minimum is one (1) subject per semester; this will ensure students remain academically active. The maximum number of subjects you can take in any one semester is dependent on the number of credits per subject. It is not recommended for students to take in excess of seventy-five (75) credits per semester. For the number of credits per subject see curriculum above.

- The lectures for Semester 2 commence on the 20th of July 2020.

What do I require to Pass a Subject?

Students will need an aggregate mark of fifty percent (50%) to pass a subject. The pass mark for the computer modules is 75%.

How is the Overall Mark Calculated?

The aggregate (overall) mark will be calculated from the student's performance on formative and summative assessments.

Where do I complete my Assessments?

All students must complete their assessments at the campus where they are registered.

Can I further my studies when I graduate?

The qualification is registered at NQF (HEQSF) Level 7 and will provide for articulation options into NQF (HEQSF) Level 6, 7 and 8 qualifications. Graduates may proceed to Advanced Diplomas, Postgraduate Diplomas and Honour's degrees in a variety of disciplines at public universities, private or foreign higher education institutions. In order to gain entry into these programmes students will have to meet the admission and selection criteria of the receiving institution.

Certification

Upon successful completion of the qualification, students will receive the Bachelor of Arts in Broadcast Journalism (SAQA ID 111434), NQF (HEQSF) Level 7 (395 Minimum Subject Credits) from Boston Media House.

International Recognition

This qualification is accredited by the Council on Higher Education (CHE), is registered on the NQF (HEQSF) by the South African Qualifications Authority (SAQA) and the institution is registered by the Department of Higher Education and Training as a Private Higher Education Institution (PHEI) to offer the qualification.

The DHET is a department of National Government, and both the CHE and SAQA are statutory bodies, as such these entities are recognised globally. Therefore, the qualifications/institutions that are accredited/licensed by them are accepted/recognised throughout the world by other government departments and by their respective agencies such as World Educational Services (WES) and other prominent authorities for purposes of equivalence/articulation i.e. employment/labour certification or further studies.

This is a quid pro quo arrangement amongst United Nations Member States; as the DHET, CHE and SAQA similarly recognises other nation/states' qualifications/institutions for equivalence/transferring to South Africa i.e. a United Kingdom or Zambian Bachelor's of Arts awarded by a public university or private degree granting college which is accredited/licensed in accordance with the United Kingdom or Zambian legislative and statutory requirements, will be equivalated/recognised as such in South Africa. Similarly, the SADC Protocol on Education and Training, which is a legal framework for regional cooperation, provides for the recognition of the equality of all Member States.

It must be noted that qualifications will be recognised and that curricula specific evaluations may lead to additional requirements for students to meet in order to gain entry into foreign programmes or professions, which is the prerogative of the receiving institution/body. For more information pertaining to direct international linkages/relationships visit the websites of the DHET, CHE, SAQA, CHEA and WES.

In addition, there is a plethora of Journalism/Broadcast Journalism programmes available at higher education institutions internationally. These are offered across the board at undergraduate and post-graduate level, from Diploma through to PhD. Most common are the degree programmes in Journalism, as well as in Media and in Communication Studies. These are offered as Arts programmes as well as Science and Social Science programmes. Many focus on radio and television news broadcasting, offering a combination of theoretical and practical learning. Some focus on the broader field of Journalism, but some (fewer) do include Digital Media and/or New Media.

Comparable offerings to this qualification include amongst many others:

- BA in Digital Media and Communication offered by the University of Westminster, England
- BA in Broadcast Journalism offered by Syracuse University in New York, USA. This institution also offers Master of Arts and Master of Science in Broadcast and Digital Journalism as post-graduate programmes
- B.A. in Broadcast and Digital Journalism offered by the University of Southern California in Los Angeles, USA.
- BA in Broadcasting Journalism and Media Communications is offered by the Glyndwr University in Wales

This programme/qualification compares favourably in relation to breadth and depth of coverage for a three-year programme in the higher education band internationally. The uniqueness of this programme in comparison to both national and international alternatives lies in the specific focus on digital media, media convergence and the application of journalism skills into the field of digital broadcasting with particular focus on better quality and more meaningful content production that can be planned to meet the rapidly changing demands of a mobile, multi-platform audience.
